

Water

You appear from everywhere,

A beautiful shimmering blue

Like crystal.

Calmly flowing over our land,

You splash down rockfaces,

Crash onto the shore.

You are calming,

The sound helps rouse my curiosity.

Many of God's creatures

Seek shelter in your domain,

They swim through your empire

With grace.

Necessary for life,

You are in everything.

Water is a part of our life,

Apart of us.

You are a gift from God,

One we can't do without.
